

GIRAFFE HOUSE
19 DECEMBER 2013

Jaimee, Claire, Tracy and Ganny on a visit to the Giraffe House. It looks like this is going to become a December holiday tradition. When we got there we stopped at the picnic tables to have a drink. It was such a hot day. The girls looked so cute in their caps.

First stop :
The Meerkat area.
Both Jaimee and Claire
tried to throw the food
over the top. but they are still too short. The Meerkat loved the food
and the girls watched them eating through the windows.

After a bathroom visit we made our way to the Giraffe camp, having to pass the various buck camps. Claire was walking along saying "Wow". Jaimee was a little tired with the heat and the walking. Both were fascinated by the size of the buck!

The Giraffe just loved Ganny, he licked my head and chest, but he would not eat the food. Jaimee said that maybe he eats other stuff like grass.

After we had fun with the giraffe, we decided to cool off in the shade before the walk back to the main area. Little faces were red from the heat and sun, so another layer of sunscreen was applied. Lots of laughter and fun was had.

Next was to feed the Ostrich. it was a rather rude one. he just wanted the food and nothing else. Jaimee took the first feed and the silly bird knocked the food bucket right out of her hands. She was very brave. Next was Ganny's turn.

Then it was time for the show. The main dude showed all the different animals and let everyone have a close up look at them. Both Jaimee and Claire really enjoyed it.

The last place to visit was the snake house. Jaimee told us all about how brave her Mommy was when she came here, because her Mommy held this very very big python.

At last our visit came to an end, we had had our picnic lunch, shared with lots of flies, feed and seen all the animals and the last animals to wish a good bye were the chickens under the table where we sat just before leaving.

We were hot and very tired, it has be a long, happy and interesting morning.

Goodbye Giraffe House, we will see you next December holiday again
